Activity Levels

Circle the boxes that best describe your level of activity. Your social worker will then talk to you about how to increase activities.

Couch Potato

Help with Household chores (make your bed, sweep the floor, etc.).

Help carry groceries or laundry home.

Go for a walk with younger relative or pet around the block.

Exercise during TV commercials (jumping jacks, jump rope, hula hoop).

Play actively for 10 to 15 minutes a day.

Moderate Mover

Actively participate in gym class and recess time

Actively play with friends (tag, sledding, catch, dodge ball, biking, etc.).

Try a team sport (soccer, baseball, basketball, football, etc.).

Be physically active for at least 15 minutes a day.

Olympic Potential!

Join a sports team at school.

Set up your schedule for working out alone or with your friends.

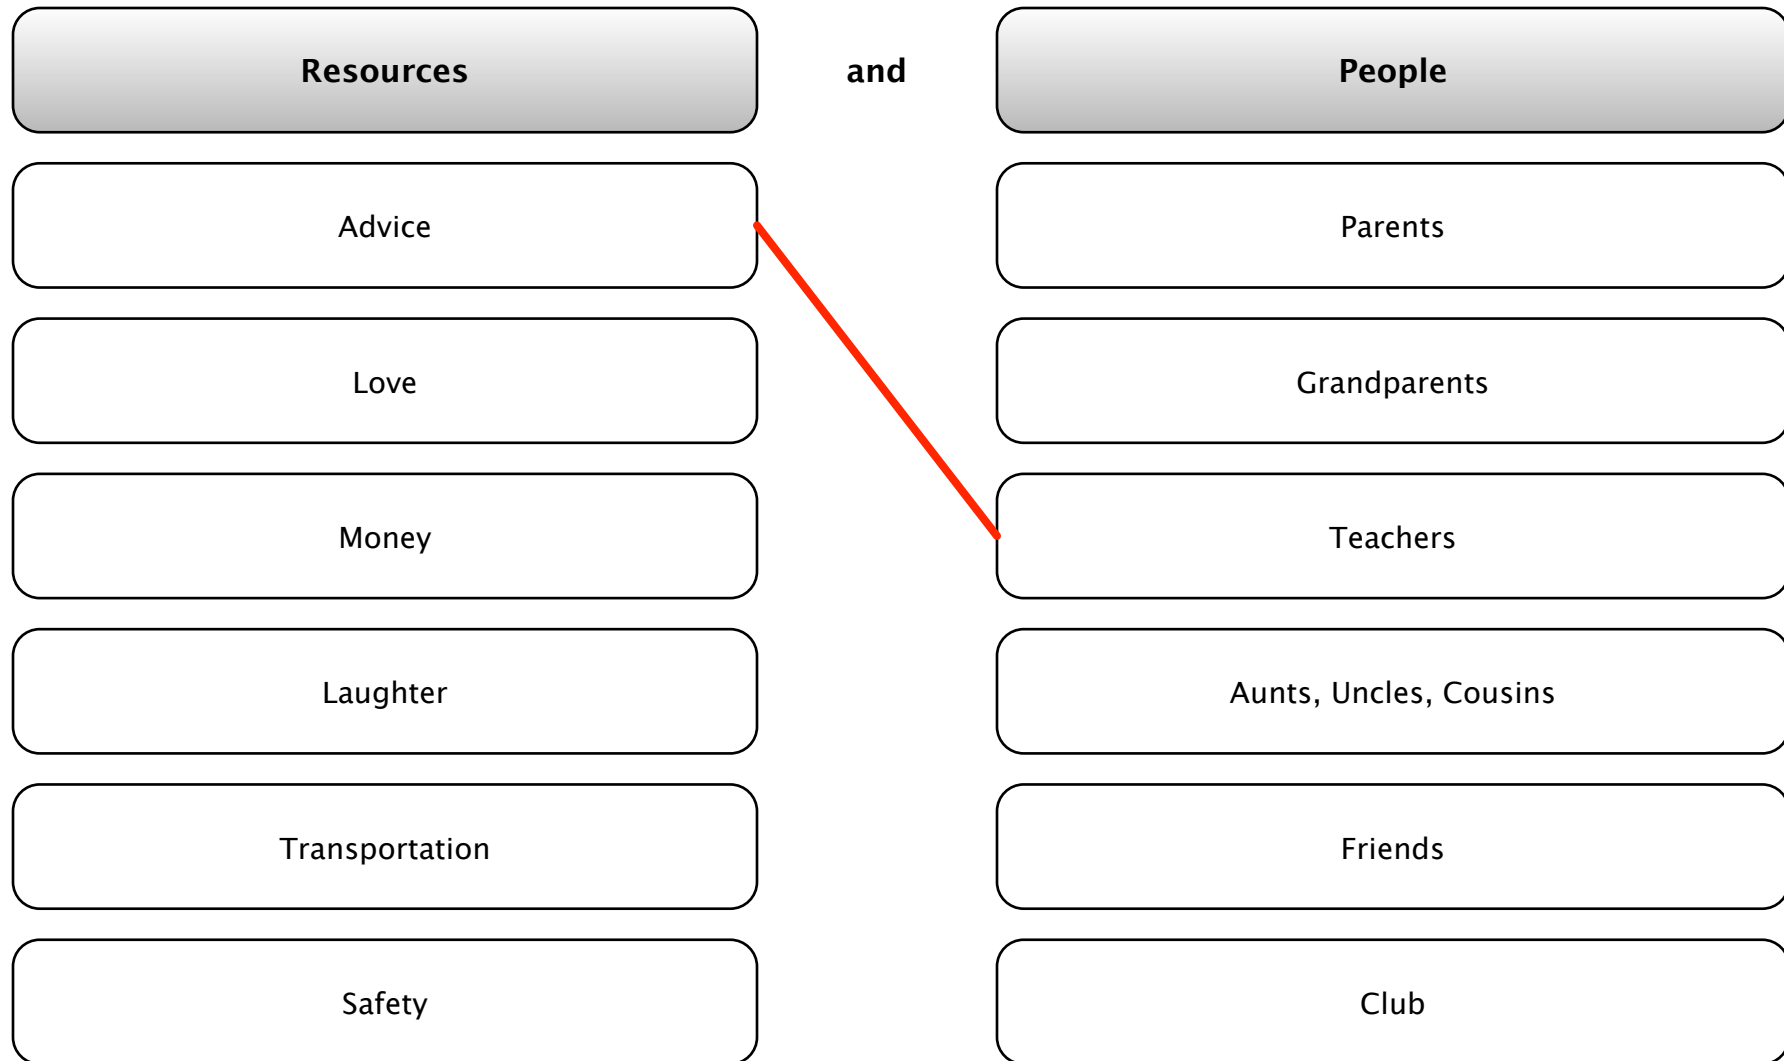

Challenge yourself to excel at one of your favorite activities (skateboarding, dancing, etc.).

Be physically active for at least 30 minutes a day.

Social Support

Draw lines that connct the resources you need and get from people you know.

Parents' Quiz

Take this quiz with your children. When you are done, compare answers with the social worker. did you match your answers?

I wish we ate dinner together:

more often.

☐

sometimes.

☐

never.

We settle family disagreements by:

☐

discussing things.

☐

fighting
about it.

☐

ignoring things.

My children do what I ask them to do:

☐

right away.

☐

when I remind me more than once.

☐

when I finally start yelling.

I wish I had an open relationship where my children could ask for advice
or discuss things:

☐

without getting yelled at or worry about getting punished

☐

no, they'd rather not ask or tell.

☐

my kids are afraid of me.

My favorite way to spend a "free day"
(Saturday, Sunday) with my family
is by doing:

Cheat Sheat

Take what you've learned with your diaBeaters! cheat sheet. Cut, fold, and keep this business card–sized reminder in your purse, wallet, or wherever!

Use less fat or oil than the recipe calls for.

Use olive or vegetable oils or sprays instead of saturated fats like Crisco, lard, or butter.

Add more vegetables than the recipe calls for.

Use brown rice and whole wheat bread instead of white.

Broil meat, chicken, and fish instead of frying.

Trim off all the fat before cooking meats.

Substitute plain, lowfat yogurt for sour cream or mayonnaise.

Substitute lowfat cottage cheese or part-skim ricotta for cream cheese.

Have sorbet or frozen yogurt for desert instead of ice cream.

diaBeaters!

Healthy Shortcuts that Work!

Cut on the solid lines. Fold in half on the dotted lines.

The Half and Half Rule

You can eat healthier just by using the "Half and Half Rule." Just substitute half bad food with half healthy food.

Half of this

White Rice

Whole Milk

Regular Cereal

Mashed Potatoes

Mayonnaise

Ground Beef

with

Half of this

Brown Rice

Skim Milk

Bran Cereal

Mashed Turnips

Mustard

Ground Pork or Chicken
